Biographical / Historical

Beginning in the 1990s, Dr. Edward Atwater, professor emeritus of medicine at the University of Rochester medical center, began an international network between people and organizations that enabled him to access and collect HIV/AIDS educational materials. While the focus of Dr. Atwater's collection remained AIDS related posters, he also obtained various material that are not correspondent to the posters themselves, but are artifacts relating to the HIV/AIDS subject matter of his poster collection. Over time, Dr. Atwater became involved with a number of HIV/AIDS related organizations and additionally collected a vast amount of printed and visual material from them.

Scope and Contents

The AIDS Education Collection contains material related to Dr. Edward Atwater's acquisition of the AIDS education posters. This collection includes two series: Subject Files and Outreach Efforts. The materials in Series 1 include the sub-series: Correspondence, research notes, and contacts, which provides information associated with international organizations and individuals. The second series include evidence of the extensive outreach efforts launched by various countries to combat the epidemic. This series is comprised of eleven sub-series: International Maps and Travel guides; Condoms; Periodicals, Guides, and General Education materials; Pamphlets; Comic Books and Illustrated materials; Gallery and Exhibition materials; Clothing; Small Booklets and Pamphlets; Postcards; Videos; and Slides of Posters.

Return to Table of Contents
Lauren Goldstein's letter is dated January 25, 1994, but this seems to be a typo. Given when the magazine was published and sent to Dr. Atwater, the correct year seems to be 1995.

Scope and Contents

The magazine includes an interview with Ron Athey, a performance artist.
