Biographical / Historical

Beginning in the 1990s, Dr. Edward Atwater, professor emeritus of medicine at the University of Rochester medical center, began an international network between people and organizations that enabled him to access and collect HIV/AIDS educational materials. While the focus of Dr. Atwater's collection remained AIDS related posters, he also obtained various material that are not correspondent to the posters themselves, but are artifacts relating to the HIV/AIDS subject matter of his poster collection. Over time, Dr. Atwater became involved with a number of HIV/AIDS related organizations and additionally collected a vast amount of printed and visual material from them.
