Mrs. Eastman

We regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Maria Eastman. Ever interested in all ways of doing good, she did much in connection with the charity work of the Hahnemann Hospital, not only through the untold good accomplished by the district nurse supported by her, but also in many other ways; and especially was the kindly interest expressed from time to time, appreciated. For several years Mrs. Eastman has been an honorary member of the Board of Managers.

Because of her kindliness of heart, because of her real charity, hers is a name long to be remembered.

The following testimonial has been adopted by the Board of Directors:

"The Directors of the Hahnemann Hospital of Rochester have learned with deep regret of the death of Mrs. Maria Eastman, and recognize the distinct loss which this Hospital sustains in common with the other institutions to which her interest was attracted. Mrs. Eastman not only has been a regular and liberal contributor to the maintenance of the Hahnemann Hospital, but for many years has been familiar with its affairs and personally interested in its work. Mrs. Eastman conceived the plan and furnished the means for the Hospital to maintain a visiting nurse to give gratuitous service to the needy of the district; and thousands to whom the ministrations of "The Eastman Nurse have brought comfort and help in distress will hold in grateful remembrance the gentle woman who made this charity possible.

The Directors hereby record their appreciation of the loyal friendship shown by Mrs. Eastman to this institution, and tender to the surviving family their sympathy in this bereavement."

A committee from the Board of Lady Managers gave expression to their sense of loss in the death of Mrs. Eastman as follows:

"The Lady Managers of the Hahnemann Hospital desire to add their tribute to the memory of Mrs. Maria Eastman who gave many proofs of her interest in the Institution. The visiting nurse, supported by her generous annual gift for that purpose, has carried cheer and comfort into many homes. This, with her other gifts furnished not only material aid but was an encouragement and inspiration to all who work for the building and maintenance of the Hospital. Sincere sympathy is tendered to the surviving members of Mrs. Eastman's family."

The writing of this issue of the Advocate is equivalent to saying goodbye to a very dear friend, for with this number the pen of the present writer is laid aside.

Six years and a half ago Dr. Biegler, as a personal favor and as a mark of a family friendship dating back three generations, asked the writer to edit the paper written in the interest of the Hahnemann Hospital. Never having had previous experience, without any knowledge whatsoever of hospitals, she was asked to plunge into it, which she did immediately by going to the hospital itself. Climbing to the top of the long terraces the sweeping view of the hor-
The Hahnemann Advocate.

Iron satisfied the new broom as far as location was concerned, but, beyond the entrance which gave one an impression of having come through a window by mistake so in sight were the ward patients, there seemed plenty of corners for inspection.

When the Hospital was instituted in 1889, the building was a large, old-fashioned homestead remodeled into wards and private rooms, and eleven years later its limitations and the wear and tear of service were evident. Beyond its high, unassailable principle there seemed but very slender material to convert into readable copy. Glancing at the reports made out by the Superintendent, Mrs. Curtice, the monthly reports were as follows—number of patients treated during the month, twelve; calls for ambulance service, seventeen; and a record of several donations. Writing out at length under the heading “A Happy New Year” measured two inches and a half in cold type. Having an aversion to clipings Mrs. Curtice was asked what she would like most for the Hospital. Without any raising inflection of hope the answer was “If we only had a piano here.” To write about the affect of music upon the sick was not hard. The next month the paper was filled out with a second article on the subject. Still with the thought of copy paramount it was mentioned in the March issue, with a suggestion that subscriptions might be sent in. A few days later Mrs. Brackett H. Clark telephoned to the Hospital saying that if a piano would mean so much she would give one as a memorial to her husband. From that moment the work connected with the paper became a pleasure—the Advocate was seen in a new light; that of an advertising medium through which to make known the needs of the Hospital.

Following closely upon the gift of the piano came the building of the Sibley wing, which, with its up-to-date and perfect appointments raised the Hospital from the wish to the reality. Coupled with its beautiful location upon a hill away from the dirt and noise of the city the Hospital now became popular with more than the doctors upon the Staff and, with every bed occupied, it was found necessary to double the corps of nurses. By this, attention was called immediately to the fact that our nurses were living in very cramped quarters indeed. This became an all important topic and at the end of two years the new Nurses Home was in readiness and paid for.

With the Sibley Wing completed came greater opportunities for charity work, and in coming in contact with the homes of those without health and no money, the lack of a district nurse became prominent. The support of such a nurse was volunteered by Mrs. Eastman. And through no other source do we so constantly receive expressions of gratitude than from those who are so kindly cared for by the Maria Eastman nurse.

There has been such an unceasing and increasing demand for more room and better wards that the extension so recently described, is the result. And still this Hospital founded by Dr. Biegler through the generosity of Mrs. Appleton, in spite of its exceeding far out on either side of the original building, is not large enough.

The new maternity ward, towards which fifteen thousand dollars has been given is the next building for which plans are to be drawn as soon as five thousand dollars more is raised.

There is a fund, too, for the purpose of a Children’s Pavilion. These two projects mean too much to be considered less than serious, sacred responsibilities, and we firmly believe that, without breaking our most iron bound rule—that of never going into debt—these two buildings will be started within a year.

And now the last word—by the things we have seen done we judge what can be done. We believe that the policy which made us print our reports when the number of patients seemed in danger of ridicule, realizing that an upward trend is a triumphant one; a policy which has never said yes to conceal a no; a policy which is upright, true and tried, is a policy worthy to leave as a benediction.

To those who, during the past six years, have felt a friendly interest in this paper in spite of its queer tangents, we extend a hearty appreciation, and we can wish no better luck for it than that these same people continue their encouragements in regard to the efforts of the Advocate.

The New Laundry.
The new brick laundry is finished, and on the evening of Friday, June seventh, the event was celebrated by opening it with a dance for the nurses. The two large rooms were decorated with flags, bunting and many colored Japanese lanterns. Concealing corners and adding much to the general effect were palms furnished by Mr. Keller. About sixty people were present, and during the intermission ice cream and cake were served. The generous donation of the refreshments was made by Mr. H. J. Wilkins.

An Enjoyable Occasion.
On Sunday, June ninth, through the kindness of Mr. George Eastman, the patients and those connected with the Hospital were given the rare treat of listening to Dossenbach’s Orchestra. Nothing more enjoyable can be pictured—the first of the perfect days without, and listening to the perfect music within made the sunshine very real.

George Eastman, Esq.,
Rochester, N. Y.

Dear George,

I had your mother's will admitted to probate this morning. I enclose herewith letters testamentary issued to you as executor of the will. This paper is for you to keep as evidence of your executorship.

I also enclose certificate of letters testamentary which you must file with the bank, showing your authority to draw funds standing in your mother's name. I understood from you that she had money in one bank only and that therefore you would need only one certificate. You will understand that the bank cannot legally pay you this money until we procure the consent of the Comptroller of the state or his representative here, which I will do as soon as possible. Generally he will not give such consent until the taxable transfer tax has been fixed. I will set the proceedings in motion for the fixing of that tax at the earliest opportunity.

I also enclose herewith certified copy of your mother's will, which is for you to keep.

There is no necessity for recording the will in the County Clerk's office, for the reason that she did not own any real estate. The record of the will is kept in the Surrogate's Court.

Sincerely yours,

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 6, 1907.

George Eastman, Esq.,
Rochester, N. Y.

Dear George,

Some time ago Andrew Wambach paid $31 to apply on his back rent. This was paid to Mr. Sanford and he did not call my attention to it but put the money in the safe. That is why it was not promptly forwarded. I enclose the $31 in bills herewith.

I enclose herewith the consent of Mr. Gibbs, attorney for the Comptroller, that you may draw funds on deposit in your mother's name in the Rochester Trust & Safe Deposit Co.

I also enclose statement of the Security Trust Co. as to the amount deposited in your mother's name with it, with an admission of service of the same by Gibbs, the attorney for the Comptroller. The Security Trust Co. agreed that they would at once procure from Mr. Gibbs the consent of the Comptroller that you draw funds in that bank. They preferred to do this themselves so that they can keep the consent there.

On presentation of the enclosed consent of Mr. Gibbs as attorney, you can draw the funds from the Rochester Trust & Safe Deposit Co. at any moment. If the Security Trust Co. has attended to the matter at once, as they said they would do, you can draw the funds from that bank at any time also.

I have filed with each of these trust companies a certificate of letters testamentary issued by the Surrogate. This is all that needs to be done.

Sincerely yours,
