

PAUL MICHEL

March 2, 1982

He says he went to Justice Department last week to talk about details and that he's ironing them out now. He assumes White House has delegated whole task to Justice and then when he and Justice have agreed on a drafting which he's sure they will, he'll get White House OK. "It's a very long process." he says with a sigh.