

DAN DAUGHERTY

July 30, 1982

Bumped into Dan and asked him whether John's quest affected him or not. Any ripple effects? "At this point, very very slight. My friends will say to me, we'd better treat him carefully, he may be in the White House someday. They are very direct about it. But it's kidding. But I'm going to a party this weekend that I never would have been invited to if I hadn't worked for John Glenn. The implied idea is that 'he may be in the White House someday. And the people who guard the doors here treat me differently.' The room is full; but we'll find you a place; just wait.<sup>ait</sup> It hasn't affected my work much. We've prepared briefing books before--but we do it more often now. He's giving a speech to the AFL-CIO and so we're working to pull together his positions on labor issues. Very slight changes like these--so far."
